

Dauphin County Bar Association

July 2016

President's Message

This year, an annual DCBA tradition, the summer picnic, moves to a new location at Liberty Forge golf course. We again join with Cumberland County to enjoy some golf, food and a beer or two.

At a recent meeting of the Social Committee, member Leonard Tintner, shared a Bar Association history lesson, one that he allowed me to pass on.

Long before the days of Shaffer's farm, City Island and Allenberry, the DCBA hosted the annual picnic at the Hershey Country Club. At the time, the early 1960's, Milton Hershey's private mansion, High Point, served as the club house and setting for the picnic. The male members (females did not attend) of the Association gathered after rounds of golf to smoke cigars and play cards on the back patio of the mansion. An odd picnic tradition, and one that remains a mystery to Leonard, involved the consumption of peanuts and bananas. Lenny recalls making trips to the local peanut vendor before the picnics.

While some traditions have changed, the annual picnic remains a relaxed opportunity to enjoy the longer summer nights with friends and fellow members of the Bar. We hope to see you at Liberty Forge.

SCORE AND THE LEGAL PROFESSION

A note to the business law bar:

It is generally recognized that a business lawyer's best source of new business is his/her current clients. Of course, businesses that are vibrant and growing will typically have greater need for legal services than those that are just "getting along". But even where counsel recognizes the need on the part of his/her clients for critical business advice, the great majority of lawyers do not have the management, sales & marketing, human resources or finance skills that their clients may need in order to expand. Query: Does it lie within the power of business counsel to assist clients in securing the business advice necessary for them to join the "vibrant and growing" group? With a referral to SCORE, the answer is an emphatic "Yes!"

SCORE offers the nation's largest network of free, expert business mentors. If your clients are just starting a business, SCORE mentors can provide a practical action plan, education and tools your clients will need to open the doors and establish a customer base. For clients who already own a business, SCORE volunteer mentors can help identify ways to increase revenues, decrease overhead, improve employee morale, enhance customer satisfaction and achieve work-life balance.

SCORE offers honest, confidential and occasionally tough perspectives about managing the new or emerging business enterprise. In so doing, SCORE can be your clients' (and your) cheerleader and partner on the path to success. For more information on the resources available through SCORE, click on, and refer your clients to, the SCORE national site at <https://www.score.org/>.

The Susquehanna Chapter of SCORE, serving Dauphin, York, Cumberland, Perry and Adams counties, has over 60 certified mentors whose sole mission is to assist businesses to grow and prosper thereby enriching the lives of the businesses' owners, employees, service providers and their communities. For information on the resources and activities available locally through Susquehanna SCORE, click on, and refer your clients to, <https://susquehanna.score.org/> or call 717-845-8830. Your clients will thank you. ——— Raymond Hedger, Esquire

AUGUST 27 EXPUNGEMENT CLINIC – PRO BONO PROFESSIONALS NEEDED

- For some law students, paralegals and lawyers, pro bono service during the workweek is difficult due to work or family responsibilities.
- For some law students, paralegals and lawyers, ongoing pro bono representation is not possible due to employment restrictions.
- For many people, employment is not an option due to prior criminal offenses (from years ago) of a minor nature.

We have a pro bono option that addresses those issues. We are pleased to announce our Pro Bono Expungement Clinic in partnership with MidPenn Legal Services, Pennsylvania Representative Patty Kim and Pa Senator Rob Teplitz at the Boys and Girls Club, 1227 Berryhill Street, Harrisburg, on Saturday, August 27 from 10 am - 1 pm.

For the August 27 Expungement Clinic, we need 25 pro bono law students, paralegals and lawyers who can bring their own laptop. No prior experience required.

Much like the popular Wills for Heroes format, the day will begin at 10 AM with training for pro bono attorneys, paralegals and law students. From 11 AM to 1 PM, the legal professionals will meet with individuals seeking expungements and use access to Wi-Fi and their laptops to gather information and discuss the general eligibility of criminal history record information for expungement with each applicant.

The pro bono attorneys, paralegals and law students at the Clinic will have no ongoing responsibility on the matters. Because we are partnering with MidPenn, their malpractice insurance will cover the event.

After the Clinic, MidPenn Legal Services will review the information and refer people that might be eligible for expungement to pro bono attorneys. To volunteer or for more information, please contact Sandy Ballard at 232-7536 ext. 7 or Sandy@dcbpa.org.

CONGRATULATIONS TO LORI SERRATELLI!!

The Pennsylvania Senate has unanimously confirmed Lori K. Serratelli, Esq., to the Dauphin County Court of Common Pleas. The Senate Judiciary Committee approved her appointment followed by quick approval from the full Senate. Serratelli was nominated by Governor Tom Wolf on June 13 to fill a vacancy on the Dauphin County Bench.

Bob & Mary Ann Claraval, together, have been personal injury lawyers for over 40 years. Our business is based on referrals from lawyers, doctors and clients. We don't advertise. When an attorney refers a client to us, Claraval & Claraval honestly and promptly pays a referral fee to the referring attorney. There is never an issue of the referring lawyers having to chase us for their check. We are happy to speak to anyone who may think they have a personal injury case. We will let you know if we believe we can help the person. If we can't help, we will tell the client and you. One of us, and often both of us, will handle your referral from start to finish. If the case doesn't resolve promptly it will be put in suit and a case management order with a trial date quickly obtained.

IS YOUR OFFICE HIRING?

I recently had lunch with two attorneys that had no idea that they could advertise to fill a position within their office with the DCBA. If you are looking to hire for a legal position, you can advertise in the Dauphin County Reporter for FREE! Also, if you are looking for a new legal position for yourself, you may also advertise. We will run any legal position for three consecutive Friday's. If you are interested in taking advantage of this, please email your ad (job position and brief description along with where to send the resume to) to bridgette@dcba-pa.org by noon on Tuesdays, for publications on Fridays. If you wish, you may also do a blind ad and have the resumes sent to the Dauphin County Reporter and then forwarded to your contact person.

NEW PRO BONO BANKRUPTCY OPTION

A new court sponsored Self-Help Program for self-represented people filing bankruptcy or considering filing is now available at the U.S. Bankruptcy Court Middle District of Pennsylvania.

Starting July 11th, self-represented people can schedule free appointments with a pro bono attorney at the courthouse or via telephone. The court created the program to address the increase in filings by self-represented debtors. With support of the Middle District Bankruptcy Bar Association, attorneys will provide pro bono services by volunteering to meet with individuals seeking information about their own circumstance.

The self-help program is intended to assist self-represented individual or joint debtors (in chapter 7 and chapter 13 cases only) by providing information about the bankruptcy process, including educational videos, instructional pamphlets and forms. The program is critically bolstered with the assistance of pro bono attorneys who will volunteer their time to meet privately with a self-represented debtor to help them decide whether to proceed pro se or hire an attorney.

For more information, go to <http://www.pamb.uscourts.gov/self-help-program>. To volunteer, please contact:

All pro bono attorneys, legal organization staff, law students, and other advocates seeking tools to better serve low and moderate income client communities are encouraged to view this program to develop new skills for productive and successful client relationships. The faculty will discuss the basics of:

- Preparing to serve legal services clients
- Ethical issues when working with legal services clients
- Cultural competency issues to address when working with clients who are monolingual or have a disability
- Client-centered interviewing strategies

2. Video to Help Parents Navigate the Dependency

Pennsylvania's Supreme Court released a comprehensive video for parents whose children have been removed from their care or are under supervision of dependency court. The goals of the video are to help parents learn

- what to expect in the courtroom,
- how to prepare for court,
- how to work with their caseworkers and attorney,
- what rights they're entitled to and
- good questions to ask.
